

Documents and Information Required to File Your Bankruptcy Case

Following is a checklist of documents and information we need to have before filing your case. Your bankruptcy case cannot be filed until all of the following documents are on hand, or have been determined by us to be unnecessary based on the facts of your case.

If you are married, then this information must be gathered for each spouse, even if one is not filing for bankruptcy protection, unless you are separated and living in separate households. Unmarried cohabiting adults, same-sex partners, and other occupants of the household are not required to provide this information.

- ✓ Federal and state income tax returns filed for the past 2 years, including all schedules and attachments (such as W-2s, 1099s)
- ✓ Pay stubs for all wages received during that past 6 months
- ✓ Proof of any other form of income received in the past year, including child support, unemployment, worker's compensation, rental income, pension, social security
- ✓ Bank statements covering the past 3 months
- ✓ Pay stubs for all wages received during that past 6 months
- ✓ Proof of any other form of income received in the past year, including child support, unemployment, worker's compensation, rental income, pension, social security
- ✓ Bank statements covering the past 3 months
- ✓ All available credit card statements received during that past 3 months
- ✓ Bills of any kind if you currently owe any balance (do not include utility bills if you are current on payments), including educational loans, taxes, personal loans, and debts you do not wish to include in bankruptcy
- ✓ Any available Quicken, Microsoft Money, or similar home finance software printouts showing all income and expenses for the past one year
- ✓ Evidence of the amounts and dates of charitable contributions or tithing
- ✓ Titles to motor vehicles in your possession, if available
- ✓ Statements showing balances owed on mortgages or car loans

- ✓ Copies of original loan agreements with banks, credit unions, or finance companies
- ✓ Notices you have received of levy, garnishment, or repossession
- ✓ Notices from any tax collection agency
- ✓ Notices of foreclosure, eviction, or sale of repossessed property
- ✓ Divorce decrees or marital property agreements
- ✓ Child support orders and any document showing the status of a child support obligation you owe or that is owed to you
- ✓ Leases and rental agreements
- ✓ Latest statement from all IRAs, pension or other retirement accounts or other investment accounts
- ✓ Evidence of money market funds, stocks, annuities, certificates of deposit, bonds, etc. unless part of an IRA or pension plan
- ✓ All documents relating to any education savings account, such as an educational IRA
- ✓ Life insurance policies
- ✓ Wills and pending probate papers if you will inherit (only if someone is deceased or likely to die in the next year)
- ✓ Trust documents for any trust you have established or from which you have a current right to receive
- ✓ Any existing written appraisals for jewelry or other property in your possession
- ✓ Any personal property “riders” to your homeowner’s or renter’s insurance policies covering jewelry or other valuables
- ✓ Partnership agreements or other evidence of interests in business
- ✓ Petitions and schedules for a prior bankruptcy with the last six years
- ✓ Court papers from lawsuits and judgments against you
- ✓ Court papers from lawsuits, judgments and other legal claims filed by you against someone else
- ✓ Copies of application forms for any loan established in the past 12 months
- ✓ Documents showing your powers over others’ property, such as Powers of Attorney, guardianship, conservatorship, executor or administrator
- ✓ A statement showing the origination date, term, amount, interest rate and current balance on any loans against your 401(k), if applicable.